SATURDAY EVENING, SEPT. 10

Her Goodby.
She was one of those very gushing, effusive ladies who occasionally infest newspaper offices, and she had been admitted into the sanctum of the managing editor of the paper on which Homer Davenport was cartoonist, recites the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Davenport was in the room at the time. When the time came for her departure she first grasped the hand of the managing editor, saying, "Goodby, Mr. Niles, goodbye!"

Then, turning to the assistant managing editor, she also shook him effusively by the hand, exclaiming, "Goodby, Mr. Bliss, goodbye!"
Davenport came next. There was no escape for him. "Dear Mr. Davenport, goodbye!" she cried with all the delicate shading of a tragedy queen.

There was silence for a moment after she had gone. Then Davenport found his voice. "Where is she going?" he asked.
"Up to Ninety-third street," replied the assistant managing editor.
"Suffering cats!" drawled Davenport. "What should have happened if she had been going to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street?"

She Handed It Back.
A noted doctor believes in training children to reason for themselves, and this policy he carries out with his own child, a little girl of eight, and he tells a story in connection with her with great gloze.

"My dear," he said to her, "I saw something today that I hope I shall never be pained to hear of you doing."
"What was that, papa?" the daughter asked.

"I saw little Mary Goodgirl stick her tongue out at a man today."
The child, evidently thinking that it was an occasion to tell of the faults of the other girl, said:
"Papa, I saw Mary!"

The doctor interrupted and told the child she must not gossip and if she knew anything that was not nice about anybody she must keep it to herself.

The child looked at her father and then said quickly:

"Well, papa, why did you tell me about Mary?"

The physician was so surprised he could not answer.—Philadelphia Times.

His Only Blemish.
When the pious looking lady entered the London birdshop and stated her need of a talking parrot the proprietor "reckoned 'e'd got the werry thing the lady wanted." "Course, ma'am," he said, "you don't want a vulgar bird. This 'ere one, now, was brought over by a missionary. Talks like a regular 'ymn book, 'e does. I wouldn't let 'im go if I didn't think you'd give 'im a respectable 'ome. Thirty-five shillings that bird, ma'am."

"You'll soon know!" screamed Polly. "Dear me! How quaint!" gushed the lady, and 35 shillings changed hands. "What does he mean by 'you'll soon know,' I wonder?"

"It's 'is only blemish, ma'am," smiled the birdshop man. "'E's got it into 'is 'ead that every one's wonderful anxious to find out a missionary's sex when 'e 'is 'is thumb with a 'ammer."

What She Missed.
Six-year-old Ruth was very unhappy because one of her many wants had been denied. Her papa was giving her a lecture and said, "You have everything that most little girls have, and I don't think there is another little girl in town has more than you."

"Oh, yes," said Ruth, "Alice has."

"Well, I guess she had a ride to her grandma's funeral!"—Exchange.

The Serpent's Venom.
A physician while talking with a group of friends remarked: "It is common to hear people speak about poisonous serpents. Serpents are never poisonous; they are venomous. A poison cannot be taken internally without bad effects; a venom can. Venoms to be effective have to be injected directly into the circulation, and this is the manner in which the snake kills. Their venom taken internally is innocuous."

The Weapon He Needed.
An excited citizen burst frantically into the police station. "My life is in danger!" he cried. "I've just received a threatening letter from the Black Hand, and I want a permit to carry a weapon."

"All right, sir," replied the captain. "I'll give you a permit to carry a fan—that's the weapon you need; something that will keep you cool."—Chicago News.

An Odd Apology.
This is the classic apology of a celebrated statesman of the last generation. "Mr. Speaker, in the heat of debate I stated that the right honorable gentleman opposite was a dishonest and unprincipled adventurer. I have now, in a calmer moment, to state that I am sorry for it."

The Elevator Man's Joke.
Hobbs—I guess the elevator is out of order. What is that sign on the door?
Dobbs—The elevator man must be a bit of a wag. It says, "Please pardon me for not rising."—Boston Transcript.

FOUND SKELETONS OF PLANTAGENET KINGS.

A dispatch from Paris says a discovery of the greatest interest to Englishmen has been made in the old Abbey of Fontevault.

The skeletons of King Henry II of England, his wife Eleanor, his daughter Joan (who married King William of Sicily) and King Richard Coeur de Lion have been found in the crypt. There can be no doubt whatever of their genuineness.

Although the Plantagenet kings were known to have been buried in the abbey, and although the tombstones of Richard Coeur de Lion, Queen Eleanor and Henry II, with their full-length effigies, are on view there, the graves themselves were never found, and it was believed that they had been desecrated in the revolution of 1789 and the royal remains scattered.

The old abbey became a prison in 1804. It has since fallen largely into ruins, and M. Magne, of the fine arts department, was recently instructed by the minister for fine arts to restore it as far as was possible to its original condition.

During the work in the ruins of the crypt, M. Magne, had a wall pulled down, and found behind it an arch with a gold cross and a coat-of-arms, with several gold leopards inscribed on it. On the walls were the names "Richard, Alienor" (Eleanor) and "Henri."

M. Magne gave orders to dig, and the four graves were found. The skeletons lay from east to west.

As soon as the restoration is completed the skeletons of the Plantagenets will be placed under the beautifully carved tombstones in the abbey.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relish for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

MOTHER EARTH HERE TO STAY!
Old Mother Earth is here to stay. The final earthquake, the lake of fire and the other Biblical terrors ament the end of the world are feeble myths, discredited and scorned by the professors of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

The university experts come forth with assurances of this old world's permanency in an editorial entitled, "The Passing of Apocalypticism," in the current issue of the Biblical World, published Saturday by the university press. "The 'last day' is all a fairy tale, say the theological experts, and the timorous may cheer up."

The Angel Gabriel will have no chance to blow his horn, nor will the tumults and processions of the judgment day take place as advertised, according to the view taken by the divinity experts. For, say the professors, the cosmic cataclysm which has been cause of nervous tension for centuries, positively will not occur. Historical criticism has quashed the biblical bug-a-boo.

BALLINGER IMPEACHED.
"That Richard A. Ballinger has not been true to the trust reposed in him as secretary of the interior; that he is not deserving of public confidence, and that he should be requested by the proper authorities to resign his office."

The foregoing sums up the findings of the four democratic members of the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee, which were made public in Minneapolis yesterday.

The republican members issued no report of any kind bearing on the controversy.

An independent report was given out by Mr. Madison, the insurgent republican from Kansas, which declares also that Mr. Ballinger "should not be retained, that he was an unfaithful trustee of the people's interest, an enemy of conservation," and that the charges of Gifford Pinchot should be sustained.

These findings will be printed and filed with Congress.
